The world of the Vikings is brought to life through the journey of Ragnar Lothbrok, the first Viking to emerge from Norse legend and onto the pages of history - a man on the edge of myth. The story of Ragnar Lothbrok who, in the 9th century, rises from simple farmer to King of the Vikings. Along the way he deals with internal crises, family issues and foreign foes, and discovers a few new lands. This review is based on the first 5 episodes, it's how much I could endure through.

If you, like myself, enjoy documentary television shows History channel provides, you might get surprised by Vikings. I was. It's not just about the lack of historical accuracy, it's about the lack of accuracy pertaining to real life or otherwise any quality at all.

The writers miss on a grand opportunity to draw from the historical knowledge of the vikings for inspiration and rather just paste it over these stereotypical characters and their Hollywood "weekend fun" plot for some novelty, which wears off 15 minutes into the show.

If you are looking for a show that will teach you something about the vikings (what I was expecting) you will be disappointed. If you were just looking for good old distracting fun, (which I'll admit, am not immune to) chances are Vikings will feel like something you saw already, it was everywhere for the past 30 years. Personally I found it boring. I am entertained. But nothing more than that. Some things are right, but every 5 minutes I am chocked about the failed facts about everything about vikings and Scandinavia. And Scandinavia is used as it was one place. It's not! Where are we in this show? Denmark, Norway, Sweden? It looks like the west coast of Norway but the Village is called Kattegat. Kattegat is the Sea between Jutland and Sweden. I am confused about which vikings the story is about. Danish, Norwegian, Swedish, Berserks? The writer has no clue about Scandinavians and Scandinavian Landscapes! He should have done he's homework better. We are a proud people, and we don't like if any one are messing with our ancestors!

Spoken from a true viking! Since we weren't able to fully agree with (Alaskan) Malamute, Keeshond and Caucasian Shepherd: Aslaug's cutie is probably a mix.

During the Viking Age and later, Royalty liked to breed what we call nowadays the Irish Wolfhound. In the Episode "Boneless" S02E08 Irish Wolfhounds are shown, when Princess Kwenthriht arrives with her tross at King Ecbert. Aslaug's cute teddy-bear for sure doesn't have any of these slim dogs in his veins. Since the pilot episode, the time frame has surpassed between 30 to 40 years. Norway The word "Hell" originates from Germanic mythology and was the name for the underworld, as well as the goddess who ruled this realm, much like Hades was the name of both a realm and a god in Greek Mythology. The Anglo-Saxons and Norsemen practiced Germanic mythology and when they where converted to Christianity the word was adopted as the word for the Christian concept.

Hel (also called Hela) is the daughter of the god/jötunn Loki and the jötunn Angrboða. She rules over the dead who did not die in battle and are, therefore, denied entry into Valhöll or Sessrumnir, the halls were slain warriors dwell.. not sure why I am required to answer my own Q, so if anyone else can help, Id deeply appreciate it! Cheers :) House of Lothbrok Ragnar: A viking farmer at the start of the show, who became a famed warrior. Eventually became Earl of Kattegat, then King of Norway. Went into exile after failing to sack Paris on his second raid.

Lagertha: Ragnar's wife at the start of the show and a shield maiden. Eventually divorced and remarried to Sigvard. Became Earl Ingstad of Hedeby after the mutiny against Sigvard. Became Queen of Kattegat after defeating Aslaug.

Rollo: Ragnar's older brother and a brutal and uncontrollable viking. Envy's his younger brother at times. He and Ragnar tend to be bitter rivals. Became Duke of Normandy and married Princess Gisla after the Battle of Paris.

Bjorn Ironside: Son of Ragnar and Lagertha. Follows in his fathers footsteps as a viking. Despises his stepfather, Sigvard. Protective of his own family.

Gyda: Daughter of Ragnar and Lagertha. Close to her mother and Athelstan.

Aslaug: Ragnar's second wife. Daughter of two legendary vikings. Had an affair with Ragnar while he was still married to Lagertha. Accompanied by her dogs. Lust's power. Has a hatred for Christians.

Pórunn: Aslaug's slave at the start of the show. Later freed and married to Bjorn. A devoted wife and shieldmaiden. Received a scar on her face on the Hill of the Ash.

Ubbe: Firstborn son of Ragnar and Aslaug. Known to be sharp and cunning, especially when it comes to hunting down someone or something.

Hvitserk: Second son of Ragnar and Aslaug.

Sigurd: Third son of Ragnar and Aslaug. Called "Snake-in-the-Eye" because of the mark in his eye. Named after Aslaug's late father. Known to have a conflict with Ivar. Has a distaste toward his mother.

Ivar: Fourth son of Ragnar and Aslaug. Called Ivar the Boneless because of his weak bones and twisted legs. Born with tormenting pain, which was remedied by Harbard. Shown deep affection and care by his mother. Unable to walk, so he has to crawl or be carried around by his brothers. Has to wear braces just to walk upright.

Margrethe: One of Aslaug's slaves, also a lover of Ubbe, Hvitserk, and Sigurd. Known to be tormented by Ivar. Later becomes Ubbe's wife.
